About the Seminar:

Education is a cultural and learning process. Through this, all people can develop cognitive abilities, physical abilities and establish values and beliefs. That allows us to act as good citizen.

Educational transformation refers to systematic changes in the prevailing educational model. Reformation is another name for transformation. It is a sign of development. So is the case of education in India. Slowly and steadily, it is truly reforming. The education system in India has seen rapid changes in the last decade. The emergence of blended learning, online classes and experiential learning has changed how students interact with the educational content.

We cannot deny the fact that the Indian Government and institutions have been working to reform the existing educational model. However there are still several issues which are required to be taken care of.

Transformation of India's educational system is crucial for future jobs. Contemporary teaching and learning methodologies, will prepare our youth for tomorrow's work place.

21st century education focuses on personalization, equality, collaboration, communication and community relationship. These skills are necessary for a rapidly changing global economy. Students will be trained for jobs that are not yet in practice. Education is the most powerful transformation tool that exists since it allows promoting human rights and sustainable development. Thus this focuses on building a fairer and more equitable future for all people.

Thus seminar aims at providing a common platform to all the stakeholders in Education, managements, faculty members, researchers and students to deliberate on diverse perspectives in the transformation of India through education.
